Premium subscribers, or those with access to the Preqin infrastructure deals database, will notice a greater link between an investors' main investor profile and the direct/debt investment information available on the deals product. But even if you don't have deals access, you'll still be able to view tables of direct and debt investments and pages of sample data so you can see what else is available.

More than ever, Infrastructure Online is simply the most detailed and comprehensive information resource on the infrastructure market globally, and is a unique resource to help you in your business. I hope that you like the enhancement to the service when you log in and have a look – I think you will! – and as always please feel free to get in touch and let us know of any feedback you may have or suggestions for future upgrades.
